Brought To You By Rabbi Ben: Sustaining Our World

By: Rabbi Benjamin Chaidell

Shalom!

This month, although in the middle of winter, brings with it the Jewish birthday of trees, Tu Beshvat.

On Tu Beshvat we celebrate the renewal and sustenance of trees. The mishna set Tu Beshvat as the day on which trees turn one year older. Why assign a birthday to trees? The Torah mandates we count a tree’s years until three. Why? Because we refrain from consuming a tree’s fruits for the first three years, we give animals and the soil “first dibs” at the tree’s fruits, sustaining the environment around us even as we cultivate it.

Tu Beshvat provides a model of sustainable production. It reminds us to harvest resources in a way that invests in and sustains what is around us and gives back to what gives to us. In recent years this birthday of the trees has become a celebration of everything trees give us and of environmental protection whose roots are in the Torah.

A few ways we have built a more sustainable Temple are replacing plasticware at kiddush with non-disposable dishes and silverware. Another are the

President’s Message

By: Linda Ungerleider

Over the past several months, I have observed an aspect of Rabbi Ben’s responsibility about which I knew very little. I know he has visited the sick, reached out to those who are homebound, responded to congregants in their time of need and so much more.

Rabbi Ben demonstrates care, compassion, collaboration and brings his deep faith and values to every person he meets, whether in good health or not. I believe Rabbi Ben has always had a good heart when helping others and this past week I was moved by his chaplaincy training. I cannot thank him enough for being there for us as we said goodbye and celebrated Helen Lewis’ life on January 26th.

I want to let you all know that we have begun our new fundraising campaign to celebrate Morris Hollander’s 100th birthday with a concert on April 27 led by Hankus Netsky. It is the committee’s hope that you consider sponsorship of this event. For more information contact Edie Rosenberg at 781-366-3534 or concert@tbiwaltham.org.

volunteering efforts of Brad Baker to cut invasive species and raise trees for our community. What will you do for our environment?

Join us on Thursday evening Feb. 13 to celebrate Tu Beshvat with a Kabbalistic seder and a tree fair at which we will meet local environmental leaders who will share ways you can make a difference right here in Waltham.

Just as Tu Beshvat reminds us to sustain nature around us, it is also a reminder to sustain ourselves and our communities. What do you need to refresh and rejuvenate as we move into the new calendar year? What are you able to contribute to sustain the people and communities you care about? How can we together build a more sustainable Temple- one that both sustains the natural environment around us and that sustains each other?

One way we sustain one another and our community is by gaining new skills to contribute to our shared prayers and learning. Susan Holbert recently led a group at kiddush in learning how to chant Haftorah. Two members of our community are preparing for b'nei mitzvah this May. Last year new people learned to read megillah on Purim. If you would like to learn new skills, let me know! I am excited to lead our community in a practical workshop on the Torah service and aliyot to the Torah at Shabbat services on Feb. 8 (a pilot "Derash on Davening"). This learning enables our community to build a sustainable religious practice, a sustainable spiritual environment as we sustain the natural environment this month.

I wish all a Happy Tu Beshvat and hizzuk (strength) in sustaining yourself, your loved ones, our community, and our world this year.

Rabbi Ben

TBI Bookshelf

By Marilyn Racette

This month we celebrate Tu B'Shevat, also called Rosh HaShanah La'llanot, or New Year of the Trees. Pearl Moscowitz's Last Stand is a perfect children's book to celebrate the holiday with. Pearl lives in an urban neighborhood that's seen a lot of changes. When she was little, she lived on Smith Street. But as the neighbors started arriving from Russia, Pearl's mother, a force of nature, petitioned the mayor to plant flowering trees on the street, and soon it was renamed Ginkgo Street. Pearl and her sisters blossomed like the trees. The sisters moved away, but Pearl remained. As time passed, the neighborhood changed and the ladies who met to play cards or have lunch with Pearl changed. Though some of the trees were lost, the ginkgo tree in front of Pearl's house remained. One day, an engineer arrived, charged with cutting down that last ginkgo tree. But Pearl has a different idea. Written by Arthur A. Levine, and wonderfully illustrated by Robert Roth, Pearl Moscowitz's Last Stand is a charming tribute to trees and neighbors, and standing up for what you believe in. You don't need to read it to a child to enjoy it.

Temple Beth Israel Memorial Park

Temple Beth Israel has maintained a cemetery for its members since 1951. Beth Israel Memorial Park is located on South Street, between the Stanley Elementary School and Children's Hospital. Graves are available in Section A (the right side as you enter the cemetery), Section B (the left side as you enter the cemetery) and in Kulanu (the left side, after Section B). The cost to purchase an individual grave in Sections A or B for Temple members is $2,200 ($4,400 for two). The cost for non-members is $3,600 per grave, which includes one year of membership.

You must be a Temple member for two or more consecutive years to take advantage of Member pricing; Non-member pricing applies to all others.

Kulanu is dedicated to serving the needs of Jewish Temple members who are married to a non-Jewish spouse. Graves in the Kulanu interfaith section are sold in lots of two, at a total cost of $4,400 for members. The cost for non-members is $7,200 for a lot of two, which includes one year of family membership.

If you are interested in purchasing one or more graves, please contact Jay Trilling of Menorah Cemetery Management Corporation at (857) 636-9440.
